Acknowledgements

Statistics Canada wishes to acknowledge the collaborative partnership of the Technical Advisory Group (TAG) for the Aboriginal Children's Survey, who provided invaluable guidance and expertise throughout the development and implementation of the survey. This group was composed of a cross-section of Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal educators, researchers, and other professionals in early childhood development. Special thanks are extended to all TAG members and honoured Elders for their commitment in advocating for a culturally appropriate children's survey and a process that respects First Nations, Métis and Inuit values.

Introduction

The Aboriginal Children's Survey (ACS) provides an extensive set of data about Aboriginal (Métis, Inuit, and off-reserve First Nations) children under six years of age in urban, rural, and northern locations across Canada. The Aboriginal Children's Survey (ACS) was designed to provide a picture of the early development of Aboriginal children and the social and living conditions in which they are learning and growing.

The survey was developed by Statistics Canada and Aboriginal advisors from across the country and was conducted jointly with Human Resources and Social Development Canada.

The Aboriginal Children's Survey (ACS) is a post-censal survey, that is, the sample was selected from children living in private households whose response on their 2006 Census questionnaire indicated that they:

- had Aboriginal ancestors and / or
- identified as North American Indian and / or Métis and / or Inuit, and / or
- had treaty or registered Indian status and / or
- had Indian Band membership.

While nationally the ACS covers First Nations children living off reserve, Métis children, and Inuit children, information was also collected in some First Nations communities in Quebec and in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Additionally, non-Aboriginal children in the territories were included as part of the Survey of Northern Children. The focus of these supporting data tables is North American Indian children living off reserve, Métis children, and Inuit children. A small number of Inuit and Métis children live on reserve and are not included in the ACS.

More detailed information about the survey is available in the ACS 2006 Concepts and Methods Guide (catalogue number 89-634).

Data relate to children under six years who are part of the Aboriginal identity population and do not include the Aboriginal ancestry population. Total counts are rounded to the nearest 10 and reflect the weighted number of people to whom the question was directed. Percentages are rounded to the nearest whole number.

Throughout the supporting data tables 'Atlantic region' includes all Atlantic Provinces combined. 'Territories' includes the Yukon, Northwest Territories and Nunavut combined.

Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term 'First Nations children' is used interchangeably throughout the report.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
The category "Mother" includes birth mother, step mother (including common-law step parent), adoptive mother and foster mother.
The category "Father" includes birth father, step father (including common-law step parent), adoptive father and foster father.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
The category "Mother" includes birth mother, step mother (including common-law step parent), adoptive mother and foster mother.
The category "Father" includes birth father, step father (including common-law step parent), adoptive father and foster father.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
The category "Mother" includes birth mother, step mother (including common-law step parent), adoptive mother and foster mother.
The category "Father" includes birth father, step father (including common-law step parent), adoptive father and foster father.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
The category "Mother" includes birth mother, step mother (including common-law step parent), adoptive mother and foster mother.
The category "Father" includes birth father, step father (including common-law step parent), adoptive father and foster father.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.
Four regions comprise Inuit Nunaat which means "Inuit homeland" in the Inuit language. These four regions are: Nunatsiavut in northern Labrador, Nunavik in northern Quebec, the territory of Nunavut, and the Inuvialuit region in the Northwest Territories.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.
Four regions comprise Inuit Nunaat which means "Inuit homeland" in the Inuit language. These four regions are: Nunatsiavut in northern Labrador, Nunavik in northern Quebec, the territory of Nunavut, and the Inuvialuit region in the Northwest Territories.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Not stated' includes 'not stated', 'don't know' and 'refusal'.
Four regions comprise Inuit Nunaat which means "Inuit homeland" in the Inuit language. These four regions are: Nunatsiavut in northern Labrador, Nunavik in northern Quebec, the territory of Nunavut, and the Inuvialuit region in the Northwest Territories.

Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Excludes children who are currently attending school.
Child care arrangements refer to the care of a child by someone other than a parent, including daycare, nursery or preschool, Head Start, before or after school programs and care by a relative or other caregiver. These refer to regular arrangements that are used consistently, rather than sporadically (e.g. babysitting). These data refer to the main child care arrangement; that is the arrangement in which the child spends the most time.
All Aboriginal children in the Yukon and Northwest Territories (on and off reserve) were included.

Note(s):
Percents may not add up to 100 because responses of 'don't know', 'refusal' and 'not stated' were included in the calculation of all estimates and rounding.
Children were identified as 'North American Indian'; however in the ACS analytical article the term "First Nations children" is used throughout the report.
Excludes children who are currently attending school.
Child care arrangements refer to the care of a child by someone other than a parent, including daycare, nursery or preschool, Head Start, before or after school programs and care by a relative or other caregiver. These refer to regular arrangements that are used consistently, rather than sporadically (e.g. babysitting). These data refer to the main child care arrangement; that is the arrangement in which the child spends the most time.
All Aboriginal children in the Yukon and Northwest Territories (on and off reserve) were included.
Four regions comprise Inuit Nunaat which means "Inuit homeland" in the Inuit language. These four regions are: Nunatsiavut in northern Labrador, Nunavik in northern Quebec, the territory of Nunavut, and the Inuvialuit region in the Northwest Territories
